

Qigong Connection August 17, 2013

Presentation by Warren King

Warren King is a gifted natural healer who has dedicated his life to helping patients heal from within so they can enjoy a happy and balanced life of vibrant physical, emotional and spiritual health. Also a talented instructor and engaging speaker, he helps all ages utilize divine intelligence and inner wisdom to take control of their own health and wholeness.

Patients from all over the world seek Warren's help with a myriad of concerns. They love his patient, compassionate and considerate manner, and know he's able to communicate with their body and soul, treating their whole being not just the symptoms. Many patients have been completely healed from illnesses including those related to the nervous, digestive and hormonal systems as well as autoimmune diseases, and they have been able to successfully eliminate extreme medications and surgeries.

Warren feels he has the best job in the world, relieving all types of suffering at many levels with very interesting and unique people. "Every case is like a detective story, we peel the layers of the onion of healing to get to the core and see someone transform their life," says Warren. Each person is tested individually for the most beneficial healing modality with a focus on foods, herbs, homeopathics, and energy, or qi, allowing the body to heal itself.

Raised in a medical family, Warren initially pursued a career in traditional medicine, but after experiencing the benefits of meditation and a healthy diet he soon sought an alternative approach to drugs and surgery. Warren did premedical studies at Cornell University and then graduated from the University of California, Santa Cruz, majoring in Psychology with a minor in Religious Studies. His focus was on dreams and transpersonal psychology. He also earned a California Holistic Health Certificate.

He began his formal studies in Oriental Medicine at the New England School of Acupuncture. He also attended the Kushi Institute to study Macrobiotics. He's studied Zen Shiatsu and is a Medical Qi Gong Instructor. He continued to study Acupuncture and Chinese Herbology under some of the finest Chinese medical doctors in the country at the Midwest Center of Oriental Medicine in Chicago. He interned with advanced oriental medical doctors in Boston, Montana, and Chicago as well as the Cook County Hospital Pain Clinic in Chicago. He received his National certification to practice Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine over 20 years ago. He received training in Auricular Medicine with Dr. Mikhael Adams in Canada and studied Homeopathy with some of the finest European Doctors in Toronto. Specializing in Auricular Therapy has provided him an unusual degree of precision and accuracy in diagnosis and treatment, as he is able to interact with the intelligence of the body, the subconscious mind and the soul.

Warren's frequent editorial contributions include articles on Auricular Medicine, healing and spirituality. Some of his hands-on instructional classes include The New Paradigm in Healing, Love your Organs, Love Yourself and Raising Extraordinary and Healthy Children. As the keynote speaker at Horst Salons he spoke on Natural Health and Beauty, has been interviewed on cable television by Tina Johnson with Body, Mind, Spirit, and has also spoken on topics including Natural Health, Natural Medicine, Health on a Budget, and How to Regain Your Health.

Warren loves to spend time with his wife, his kids - who have been raised in a totally natural way - and his Sheltie dog. He runs a spiritual book study group and is active in his church. He loves studying spirituality and health and doing Qi Gong and yoga. He's also interested in quantum physics, astronomy, astrology and dream study. Warren has a large organic garden, takes ballroom dancing lessons and loves Indian Ragas as well as listening to classical music at Orchestra Hall.
